

Introduction to RAG

Retrieval-Augmented Generation (RAG) is a technique that enhances large language models by incorporating external knowledge. Instead of relying solely on training data, RAG systems can retrieve relevant information from a database and use it to generate more accurate and contextually relevant responses. This approach helps overcome limitations of static models, such as outdated knowledge and hallucination. RAG combines the power of retrieval systems with generative AI to provide up-to-date and fact-based answers.